END CAME LAST EVENING SHORTLY AFTER NINE O'CLOCK— WEEKS OF SUFFERING.

FUNERAL ON SATURDAY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Utica, N. Y., Oct. 31.—All Utica is in mourning today over the death of Vice President James Sherman, who died last evening at 9:42 at the family residence of Bright's disease with other serious complications.
The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon at two o'clock from the Dutch Reformed church, of which Mr. Sherman was a parishioner. There will also be private services at the home, for the immediate family. The funeral sermon will be preached by the Rev. Dr. Louis H. Holden, who was Mr. Sherman's pastor.
Fifty members of the United States senate, members of the president's cabinet and the president himself will attend the church services to pay their last respects to the dead. President Taft will leave Washington late tomorrow for Utica and will go from there to New York and thence to Cincinnati, not returning to Washington until after election.

Marshall's Tribune.
Chicago, Oct. 31.—Governor Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana, democratic vice presidential candidate, at the end of his 7,000 mile speaking tour to the Pacific coast states and return, today cancelled further campaign speeches because of the death of Vice President James S. Sherman. Governor Marshall had been scheduled to make three speeches in Chicago and several in Indiana and Ohio.
"In the presence of the dead," said Governor Marshall, "every self-respecting man stands silent. Mr. Sherman is not alone the dead of one of the contesting political parties, but he is the nation's dead as well, and as such is deserving of the honor and respect of every man who respects the nation."
Before departing from Chicago for Indianapolis this afternoon Governor Marshall sent a telegram of sympathy to Mrs. Sherman.

Known as "Sunny Jim."
The twenty-seventh Vice-President of the United States and the only one re-nominated, was christened James Schoolcraft Sherman. But, in nearly a quarter of a century of public life, "Jim" Sherman he was to his intimates, and probably half the nation referred to him as "Sunny Jim," a sobriquet he earned as one well might imagine by a never-failing, all-year-round disposition.
Sherman belonged to the school of republicanism, nowadays popularly called "regular" and he fought his political battles shoulder to shoulder with men of his faith without compromise or flinching. Like every Conway and His Wife Protest Ignorance of Murder of Singer Girl When Arrested This Morning.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Lima, Ohio, Oct. 31.—A man and woman who said they were Charles N. Conway and his wife, wanted in connection with the murder of Sophia G. Singer, in Chicago, were arrested here today. Both denied they had anything to do with the murder. The arrest took place about 10 o'clock at the hotel where the Conways were stopping.
"I admit that I'm the man the police are looking for," Conway told the police. "But I deny that I have any knowledge of the crime in connection with which they want me."
Ignorant of Crime.
Conway and the woman were taken to jail to await the coming of officers from Chicago. Later the police said Conway declared that when he left Chicago he did not know a thing about the murder of Miss Singer. "I did not know that such a crime had been committed until I read about it in the paper," the police report he said to them.
They say Conway declared to them that the body of Miss Singer must have been put in his room at the Indiana avenue apartment in Chicago after he and his wife left the city Monday night. Mrs. Joseph Cramer, whom the police believe to be Conway's mother lives here.

Bulgarian Defeats Turks Under Nazim Pasha and Continue in Pursuit of Fleeing Ottomans.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, Oct. 31.—The result of the great battle now being fought between the Turks and the Bulgarian armies in the eastern part of the Balkan peninsula, it is said, will probably give occurrence for the intervention of the European powers. In a dispatch from Vienna it is attributed that the foreign ministers of the European governments have reached a tentative agreement in this matter and in any event the entry of the Bulgarian troops into Constantinople will not be tolerated by the powers.
Russia in Agreement.
Even Russia is disinclined to permit such an occurrence. It is also understood in official quarters in the Austrian capital that the Balkan nation has already made known in an unofficial manner that they are prepared to accept intervention by the powers at any moment.
The Turkish army after its defeat at Lule Burgas retreated toward Tchaualia. Adrianople is completely hemmed in by the Bulgarian troops. Bulgarians Rout Turks.
The Bulgarian army has completely defeated the Turkish force estimated at 200,000 at Lule Burgas after three days of terrific fighting, according to a news agency dispatch from Sofia. The Bulgarian cavalry is pursuing the retreating Turks.

Albert L. Watson Charged With Taking Lives of Wealthy Lumberman and His Own Wife.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Shreveport, La., Oct. 31.—The details of one of the most diabolical murder plots ever executed in this section of the country are expected to be unraveled in the trial of Albert L. Watson which has commenced here. Watson and Mrs. Eva Walls Bailey are charged jointly with successfully plotting to murder the wife of the man and the husband of the woman in order that their own illicit love affair might end in marriage.
C. C. Bailey, a wealthy lumber mill owner and husband of the woman defendant, was backed to death with an ax in his home on the night of September 2 last. Watson, whose intimacy with Mrs. Bailey had already attracted attention, was immediately taken in custody. The next day he is said to have made a detailed confession of the crime to the authorities.
According to the alleged confession, Watson came to Louisiana in the early summer after having poisoned his wife in a Texas town. Some months previously, according to the confession, Watson and Mrs. Bailey had entered into a compact by which Watson was to poison his wife and Mrs. Bailey her husband. Watson did away with his wife without arousing suspicion, but repeated efforts by Mrs. Bailey, it is said, failed because she did not know how to administer the poison.
Watson came to Louisiana and obtained work in Bailey's mill. Bailey became suspicious and quarreled with his wife. This resulted in hurrying along the plot. Mrs. Bailey having again tried unsuccessfully to poison her husband, Watson crept into the house at night and, according to his statement, killed Bailey with an ax.

SECRETARY WILSON GAVE BRIEF TALK ON REPUBLICANISM

Member of President Taft's Cabinet Spent Several Hours in City Today.

James Wilson, secretary of agriculture in President Taft's cabinet, arrived from Beloit this morning at eleven and left later this afternoon for Edgerton where he speaks this evening. He was met at the intersection of the Taft Republican club and between eleven and twelve held an informal reception in the office of the Myers Hotel. At twelve thirty, some fifty citizens sat down at a luncheon in the hotel and after the meal heard a few of the salient points of republicanism advanced by the secretary.
Miss Wilson, daughter of the secretary accompanies her father on his campaign work and took luncheon at a table adjoining that of secretary, Mrs. Arthur Harris, Mrs. Frank Jackson and Mrs. John Rexford dining with her.
Following the repast, Secretary Wilson spoke briefly to the assemblage, taking up first the work being done in agricultural lines. He praised the work done by Wisconsin men in improving agricultural methods and spoke in particular of the work of Dean Henry of the University of Wisconsin and of Ex-Governor W. D. Hoard, who he said had done more than any man, living or dead in America.

He told of the work the Department of Agriculture is doing, employing now in its service fourteen thousand men, where only seven hundred had been employed when he first became secretary of the department. He told of what has been done in the south in securing the diversification of crops, and in securing plants that are best adapted to climatic conditions as they prevail in the various parts of the country, and especially to arid portions. Other methods employed by the department in its work were described briefly, such as the appointment of agents in eight hundred counties in the south to help the poor farmers, and the importation of plants adapted to certain sections. He desired, he said, to organize the work in every state in the north as has been done in the south. There are great things to be done in Wisconsin, he said, and in every state to produce the greatest crops that can be secured from the soil. He also declared that present methods of beef production are primitive and suggested the remedy therefor.
Turning to the subject of politics, Mr. Wilson declared that this is the queerest year he has ever seen. He declared that, although times have never been better there are some who want to change them. The Republican party, he said, wants to protect the working man with a protective tariff, but the Democratic party, as honest in its beliefs, does not believe as the Republicans do and would have a tariff for revenue only. Their creed, he declared has not been changed or modified in the past fifty years. The experience the country has had with the Democratic party in power, he declared, should be sufficient, and he referred to the hard times in the Cleveland administration. "Then we had patches on our knees, and some of us had patches elsewhere," he said the number of people coming into the country yearly made a protective tariff necessary, and gave his reasons for the statement.

As to the Progressive party, Mr. Wilson said: History has given us the knowledge that third parties have come in, have made a little noise and then passed out of existence. The two parties are well organized and will continue to exist. If you continue Taft, you know times will be good."
On motion of President O. S. Morse of the Taft Republican club, a rising vote of thanks to Secretary Wilson for his remarks was extended by the men present.

PARTY LEADERS HAD CONFERENCE TODAY

New York, Oct. 31.—Chairman Hilles of the republican national committee, and William Barnes, Jr., chairman of the advisory board of the national committee, conferred today as to the advisability of cancelling all of the republican meetings throughout the country and bringing the republican campaign to an end because of the death of Vice President Sherman. After an exchange of many telegrams it was decided that to do this would be impracticable.

ELECTORS TO NAME NEW VICE PRESIDENT

Ballots Printed With Mr. Sherman's Name Are Legal As No Vote is Cast Directly for Him.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, Oct. 31.—The death of Vice President Sherman gives point to the serious discussion of the question of the succession.
There is no provision of law for filling a vacancy caused by the death or retirement of a vice president, but Mr. Sherman was a candidate for re-election, and the possibility of his death prior to the election, or prior to the action to be taken by the electoral college in January, gave much concern.
Now that he is dead it is not necessary to make any change in the ballots already printed and in process of distribution to the polling places, for no vote is cast directly for the vice president.
Electors are chosen to cast the ballots of their constituents for candidates for president and vice president, and while there is a moral obligation resting on those electors to support the nominee of the party, the instructions are merely directory, and not mandatory.
Therefore, there will be no defect in the ballots to be cast for the republican candidate for presidential electors, even though they appear as in some states upon the ticket under the name of "Taft and Sherman."

The death of Mr. Sherman, of course, relieves them, if elected, from the moral obligation to vote for him, and the question now arises from they shall vote for in his place.
Already there has been discussion of the availability of Governor Hadley, Governor Deneen, Senator Borah, Senator Cummings, Senator La Follette, former Vice President Fairbanks, Senator Root, Senator Burton, Senator Lodge, Governor Goldsborough and others.

No Party Embarrassment.
Washington, D. C., Oct. 31.—Removal from the ticket of a vice presidential candidate before the November elections it was generally agreed in Washington last night, does not lead to legal embarrassment to his party.
This conclusion was based largely on the fact that the voters, on Tuesday, do not vote directly for president and vice president, but vote for electors who are clothed with power, under the Constitution, to select whomever they please should they meet in their respective states on the second Monday in next January, to ballot for a president and vice president and to certify that result to Washington.
While the names of the presidential and vice presidential candidates are universally printed at the head of the respective lists of electors, this is regarded as a matter of party wisdom, to bind the elector morally and to describe their political complexion for the convenience of voters.

DISORDERS FEARED IN CUBAN ELECTION

Liberals Dissatisfied With Election Arrangements—Voters Carry Revolvers to Polls.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Havana, Oct. 31.—Within twenty-four hours of the opening of the polls for the election of a president of the republic of Cuba fears are very generally expressed here that the day will not pass without serious disorders. While the government has made the most careful provisions for the protection of the polling places and for safeguarding the voters in the exercise of their rights, the liberals still continue dissatisfied with the arrangements. They consider them unfavorable to their side, especially in relation to what they declare to be the unfair attitude of the rural guards and of some of the specially appointed military supervisors who have been placed by the government in command of the armed forces of many towns throughout the island. The messages from Orestes Ferrera, speaker of the house of representatives, and liberal leader to President Gomez, last night, stating that he had decided to abandon all political activities is believed to have had the effect of increasing the discontent among the liberals. It is now understood, however, that Ferrera will not retire from politics until after the election. Another serious source of danger is that arising from the fact that practically all the voters go to the polls armed with the view of the action of the government in revoking all permits to carry revolvers.

CONTRIBUTIONS NOW NEAR MILLION MARK

Washington, Oct. 31.—Campaign contributions to both republican and democratic national committees crawled along toward the one million dollar mark during the last week. Supplemental reports filed today with the clerk of the house of representatives show that since the first reports were made about a week ago the total republican contributions have increased to $744,688 and the democratic contributions to $815,052. In addition to that the national committee has borrowed $40,000.

DIRECTORS OF TAFT FIGHT SEE VICTORY

MULVANE AND KEALING FORECAST REPUBLICAN VICTORY.

ROOSEVELT ONLY THIRD

Fight is With Governor Wilson Only—Will Not Hold Bryan's Vote.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Chicago, Oct. 31.—David W. Mulvane and Joseph B. Kealing, directors of the Taft campaign in the West, yesterday prepared a forecast of the election returns. They claim 315 electoral votes for President Taft, concede 132 to Governor Wilson and class 84 as doubtful.
A significant paragraph of the forecast is the message sent to republicans who had thought early in the campaign to vote for Governor Wilson in order to make the defeat of Colonel Roosevelt overwhelming.
The two western managers of the campaign now declare that the danger of Roosevelt running well up in the final returns has been eliminated and that all republicans can with perfect confidence in the result vote for President Taft.
The formal statement in part is as follows:
"With the election only a few days away, many voters who heretofore remained silent as to their intention are declaring themselves for President Taft.
Drift is to Taft.
"The drift is strongly to Taft. Reports from all over the middle and far west are unanimously to the effect that the contest on the home stretch is between Taft and Wilson. This is so apparent that Roosevelt will run a poor third.
"Many voters who have been following the third term realize now that a vote for Roosevelt is a vote for Wilson, and they are not willing to take a chance on the free trade legislation.
"A few days ago we requested the men in charge of the campaigns in the various states in our jurisdiction to give us an unbiased report as to the exact conditions as they exist at this time. The consensus of their opinion is:
"1. That Wilson will not get the democratic support that Bryan received in 1908.
"2. That Roosevelt is losing ground rapidly each day, and will run a poor third.
"3. The republicans who early in the campaign had made up their mind to vote for Wilson to insure the defeat of Roosevelt, realize now that the contest is between Taft and Wilson and are coming back to Taft.
Predict Taft Victory.
"We do not hesitate to predict that President Taft is reasonably sure of carrying the following states:

Alabama	3
Arizona	7
Connecticut	7
Delaware	3
Idaho	4
Indiana	15
Illinois	29
Iowa	12

WILL TRY "WHITEY" LEWIS FOR MURDER

Will be First of Four Gun Men to be Tried For Murder of Herman Rosenthal.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, Oct. 31.—It was definitely decided today that "Whitey" Lewis will be the first of the four gun men charged with the murder of Herman Rosenthal to be placed on trial.

Vice President and Mrs. Sherman and their home at Utica, N. Y.

part in the funeral and as many senators as can reach Utica in time will be present.

Proclamation by President.
President Taft will issue a proclamation directing that for thirty days all the United States embassies and legations abroad shall observe mourning. The flags over the White House, the dome of the capitol and the public buildings in Washington will be half-masted tomorrow and until the day of the funeral. From the Navy Department and the War Department orders were flashed to all Army posts, ships at sea, Navy yards and insular possessions to put flags at half mast on the day of the funeral. The draping of public buildings with mourning is prohibited by law.

Many members of the diplomatic corps are expected to attend the funeral services, though not officially.
The Vice President's death leaves the present Senate without any regular presiding officer. The late Senator Frye's place as president pro tempore never has been filled. Neither Senator Gallinger, the candidate of the regular Republicans, nor Senator Bacon, the candidate of the Democrats, has been able to command the necessary majority vote. The Progressive Republicans on each ballot have prevented an election. Meanwhile, during the Vice President's several months' absence, the Senate has been presided over by Senators Gallinger and Bacon alternately, by common agreement.

Senator Bacon to Preside.
By this agreement Senator Bacon is to preside over the Senate when Congress reassembles on Dec. 2, and until Dec. 16. Therefore, Senator Bacon is charged with the duties of that office now, and to do so will make the arrangements for the Senate's participation in the funeral ceremonies.
According to the Constitution, the succession to the Vice Presidency now goes to Secretary Knox of the State Department, who also figures as a presidential possibility should the election throw the contest into the House.

Mr. Sherman was the fifth Vice President whose death in office shocked the nation. Vice President King died during Pierce's administration, Vice President Wilson during that of Grant, Vice President Hendricks during that of Cleveland and Vice President Hobart during McKinley's first term.

Wilson's Message.
Princeton, N. J., Oct. 31.—Governor Wilson sent the following telegram today to Mrs. James S. Sherman at Utica: "In common with the whole country Mrs. Wilson and I have been deeply shocked by the death of Vice President Sherman and we wish to extend to you our heartfelt sympathy."

COUNTY REAL ESTATE VALUATION BOOSTED FOURTEEN MILLIONS

A TWENTY-FIVE PERCENT INCREASE IN ASSESSED VALUATION ACCORDING TO FIGURES.

FOLLOW INSTRUCTIONS
County Assessors Carry Out Tax Commission's Orders to Assess at Full Value—Personal Property Figures.
Rock county's total assessed valuation for the year 1912, figures for which have been compiled at the county clerk's office from the assessors' reports, is $68,163,785, or an increase over the assessed valuation of 1911 of $16,820,331. This would seem to indicate that the assessors in the various towns, cities and villages, had endeavored to follow in part, at least, the instructions issued by F. A. Taylor, county income tax assessor and supervisor of assessments, at the meeting of the assessors last spring. At that time Mr. Taylor upon the orders of the state tax commission urged the assessors of the county to place all property, real and personal, at its true or actual value as nearly as it could be ascertained.

Real Estate Boosted.
By far the greatest increase in Rock county's valuation is seen in the case of real estate, which has been boosted twenty-five percent. The figures for 1912 are $56,758,079 and for a year ago they were but $44,933,043, a difference of $11,825,036.
It is interesting to note the percentage of increase in real estate valuation in the various cities and townships. In Janesville, which was affected by the re-assessment, the increased valuation amounts to over 27 percent, the increase for this year being $3,094,410. Beloit's percentage of increase is 24 percent, the increase in Janesville or in comparison with the general increase for the entire county, amounts to only 13 percent, or $1,856,093.
In the city of Edgerton, although there was no re-assessment the local assessors raised the valuation of real estate slightly over 28 percent, or $44,276. There is not such a change in the percentage for Evansville as the increase is only $292,770 or 38 percent.

Increases in Township.
Real estate valuations in the townships show a greater increase for the most part than the cities. Some of the figures for the towns are of interest and are given as follows: the town of Bradford nearly 50 percent increase or $1,177,629; town of Turtle, 45 percent increase, or $962,835; La Prairie, 27 percent or $851,000 increase; Harmony 40 percent, or $863,105 increase; Plymouth 32 percent, or $578,590 increase; Union, 25 percent, or $407,260 increase; Rock 30 percent, or $497,430 increase; Janesville, 17 percent, or $410,875 increase; Beloit, 21 percent, or $406,910 increase; Magnolia, 18 percent, or $146,374 increase; Port, 12 percent, or $166,450 increase; Fulton, 24 percent, or $229,140 increase; Newark 26 percent, or $337,000 increase; Center 23 percent, or $251,735 increase. The town of Spring Valley has an increase of only $635 in its real estate valuation which is the smallest of any of the towns.

Personal Property Increase.
The increase in the personal property valuation for the county is not so pronounced as in the case of real estate. The increase for 1912, is $1,995,301 or about 16 percent. As is well known the greatest increase in the assessment of personal property is seen in the city of Janesville, as a result of the re-assessment, the increase for Janesville is $1,193,480, or 30 percent. The increase in the county outside of Janesville is $956,821 or about 12 percent. Thus it is plain that Janesville will bear the burden of the increased personal property assessment.
The accompanying table gives the personal property, real estate and total assessed valuation for the various towns, cities, and villages of the county and the amount of personal property per capita. The figures will be of interest to tax payers throughout the county.
The average per capita division of personal property for the county is $205.39.

dollars on Friday, October 25, and to cashing the check at the Dover City Bank. He was sentenced by Judge Pfiehl to two years imprisonment in the state's prison at Waupun.
Before passing sentence upon him the Judge asked Bentley if he had anything to say in his defense. He said that he committed the crime while in an irresponsible condition, but that he was nevertheless thoroughly ashamed of his conduct. He had a great deal of trouble in life and this had caused him to take to drinking. Under all sense of responsibility for his actions seemed to leave him. Bentley admitted on question that he had once before served time for obtaining money under false pretences but said that it was a very involved affair and the really responsible party escaped punishment. He said that he was entering the declining years of life, being now in his sixtieth year, and he begged that leniency be shown him.
Judge Pfiehl told the prisoner that under the new state law that he would be placed on parole at the expiration of half his term if his behavior under sentence was satisfactory to the prison officials. Bentley will probably be taken to Waupun late today.

HOMECOMING PLANS NEARLY COMPLETE

Great Celebration For Alumni and Students at University to be Held Friday and Saturday.
[Special to the Gazette].
Madison, Oct. 31.—Plans for the great homecoming celebration which is to be held here this week Friday and Saturday are rapidly nearing completion and reports thus far show that it will probably be the largest thing of the kind which has ever been accomplished at Wisconsin.

The reception committee has made extensive plans for receiving and entertaining visiting alumni members, their headquarters being at the Wisconsin Union where a bureau of information will be established. Here also will the visitors receive their badges and obtain the tickets to the homecoming smoker. Delegations will meet all trains and arrangements have been made for a parade from the lower campus to Camp Randall just before the game.
On Friday evening a mass meeting has been billed which will be addressed by as many old football men as possible and a number of others such as Gov. McGovern and Judge Karel, Captain Hoeftel and Coaches Jumeau and Schultz.

Merchants all over town have promised the decorating committee that they will festoon their store fronts in cardinal and white, making very effective decorating scheme. By the courtesy of a local electric light company five thousand cardinal globes have been furnished for store windows and will replace the arc lights on the square and along State street. Sorority and fraternity houses will be decorated with large cardinal "W's".

More than two thousand letters sent out from the Alumni Headquarters during the summer contained announcements of the homecoming and called attention to the plans for that occasion. All of the school magazines have had articles on the Homecoming at various times. Stories of the affairs have been sent all over the world by the Associated Press and the United Press.

A Smoker will be held at the gymnasium on Saturday evening beginning at 7.30 o'clock. The list of speakers chosen contains the names of Mr. James Trotman, of Milwaukee, President of the Board of Regents; Mr. G. A. Buckstaff, of Oshkosh, President of the Alumni Association; Mr. S. S. Gregory, of Chicago, Prof. A. B. Hall, Dr. Geo. W. Ehler and Dr. Maxwell. A regatta has been sent to Coach Slagg of the Chicago team to deliver a few words but as

PRINCETON EXPECTS THESE MEN TO GIVE GOOD ACCOUNT OF THEMSELVES SATURDAY

Hobey Baker and DeWitt.

When Princeton and Harvard clash at Cambridge next Saturday Hobey Baker and DeWitt are expected to do the most brilliant work for the Tigers. In the Princeton-Dartmouth game last Saturday Baker, playing behind the Tiger line, rose to fame by making an eighty-yard dash to a touchdown. In the final period he picked a Dartmouth punt out of the air on Princeton's twenty-yard line and fled the length of the field. Though Baker played most brilliantly in the Dartmouth game, De Witt was the real mainstay of the Tigers, hammering irresistibly and steadily at the green line.

CHAMPIONSHIP FORM SHOWN BY VARSITY

Wisconsin Eleven Being Put in First Class Shape by Coaches For Chicago Game Saturday.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Oct. 31.—Hard practice continues for the Wisconsin regulars this week in preparation for the big game with Chicago Saturday at Camp Randall. The long grueling routine which has been the lot of the team since the Purdue game is putting the men into first class shape and prospects are good for a winning team.

The Badger coaching force, Juneau, Driver and Schultz are being aided this week by a number of old football stars who are doing their utmost to help Wisconsin win the championship.

Those who have come thus far in response to the call from Coach Juneau are: Max Deering of Portage, star tackle of the 1905 team; "Bob" Vanderboom, captain of the team in 1905; John Messmer, of Milwaukee, captain of 1907 and "Biddy" Rogers, captain in 1908. "Biddy," who starred at end in his day is helping get the ends in shape for Saturday's game and Deering is assisting "German" Schultz with the line. It is the hope of the coaches and also a possibility that before the end of the week enough old men will be back so that the team can have individual coaching.

In the practice scrimmages thus far this week several weaknesses have been discovered and caused the coaches some worry but these are being gradually improved and the atmosphere of gloom is rapidly evaporating from Camp Randall as the week advances. Goal after goal was made by the scrubs during the fifteen yard line Monday showing that the defense was very weak. The offensive playing of the varsity is strong, however, although some hard work is still necessary on the part of the coaches and men.

Van Riper and Keeler are still out of the game and there is a possibility that the former may be unable to take part in the big battle. The knee which he injured last day is still in a plaster cast and nothing can be told about it as yet in case he is not allowed to play "Doc" Torney will take his place. Keeler's shoulder and arm although still in a sling, will be sufficiently healed by Saturday so that he can take his place. It is the hope of every Wisconsin supporter that the entire hospital list can be burned by Saturday morning.

In addition to the team is Gene VanGhent, who played tackle in some of last year's games. The shoulder which he broke in the first practice this year has healed nicely and he has been busy learning the plays and signals for the last two weeks.

Eddie Gillett's eligibility was the subject of a lively discussion the

LOCAL RIDER THIRD IN MADISON RACES

Roy Worthington of This City, Rode Harley-Davidson Machine in Motorcycle Races Saturday.

Roy Worthington of this city, riding a Harley-Davidson machine, won third place in the motorcycle races at Madison on Saturday, held in connection with the speed program of automobile and motorcycle races. H. C. Stevens, who has raced on the course here, took the race on a Harley-Davidson, and W. L. Ester of Madison, riding an Indian, was second. The time made was 35.2.

H. H. McDaniel, formerly of this city, now of Madison was referee of the motorcycle races, and had charge of them. A. W. Dunwiddie, secretary of the Southern Wisconsin Racing association, acted as clerk of the course and flag man.

The third event, a ten-mile race for professional riders, was stopped after the fourth lap by Referee McDaniel, after Frank Pehrson of Rockford, riding a Merkle, had tried several times to "roll" W. L. Ester of Madison, who was running neck and neck with the Rockford man. Ester, who was riding an Indian, entered a protest after the race was stopped, and the matter will be taken before the Federation of American cyclists. A decision is expected within thirty days.

In the ten-mile auto race William Priellip of Madison won with his Buick in twelve minutes. Prather of Baraboo won the fifteen-mile auto race with a Buick, Priellip being forced to drop out because of a leaking radiator. The time was 24:30.

In the old days you paid a hundred or more for a bicycle. Today you can buy a better one for a fifth as much. Now—big production is bringing automobile prices down. And Ford, as usual is the first to reach bottom.

THEN AND NOW.

Congressman James A. Tawney of Minnesota gives his reason for the following advice to first voters. Referring to conditions which existed in 1892, he says:

"Within six months after a majority of the people had voted a change in the political control of their government, placing the same in the hands of the democratic party on a platform advocating an industrial policy diametrically opposed to that which had controlled the industrial affairs of the American people for thirty-two years, our mills and factories were closed down, hundreds of thousands of honest, industrious laboring men were traveling across and up and down the continent in search of employment.

"If the issue in this campaign could be determined on November 5 only by the men who passed through the experience between 1892 and 1897 it would not be necessary for the republican party to make a campaign, for there is scarcely a business man, a farmer or a laboring man who experienced the hard times, the idleness and the low prices of his products, who would for a moment again vote to place the party in power that wrought such industrial and financial ruin as the country experienced during that period.

"Unfortunately only about thirty per cent of those who voted in 1892 will participate in the determination of these issues in 1912. It is the young men in this campaign, as it was the young men in 1892, who will determine these issues. The young man who casts his first vote on the 5th of next November was only one year old when Cleveland was elected last time, while the man who will cast his tenth vote in states where they vote every two years was only nineteen years old then.

"These young men from twenty one to forty-one years of age today were either in their swaddling clothes or in the schools and the colleges when the country was passing through that terrible experience resulting from the change in 1892 from the principles and policies of the republican party to those of the democratic party. It is therefore the duty of this class of voters—these young men—to give to the consideration of the issues in this campaign most serious thought before blindly voting upon the theory that there is no relation whatever between the political control of the national government and of their individual or national prosperity when such a relation actually exists."

Mr. Tawney was a living character in 1892. He belongs to the 30 per cent remnant of voters referred to, and generally known as the "Old Guard," but he is talking from knowledge gained through experience.

The democratic party today is the same free trade party that it was twenty years ago. This statement requires no argument to verify. The democratic house at the last session of congress, passed some free trade bills that would have ruined our shoe industry, and President Taft's veto only prevented their becoming laws. If both Houses of the next Congress are democratic, and they are liable to be, a democratic president is all that is necessary to retard progress and kill prosperity. This is not an idle dream.

The panic of 1893 did not burst like a cyclone. The approach of the storm was so gradual that many people did not notice it, and their first warning was when they were dropped from the pay roll.

The election of Cleveland in 1892 was not a surprise. He was regarded as a safe, conservative man, and many republicans voted for him, in the interests of a change. But long before he was inaugurated, the business of the country read the handwriting on the wall, and retrenchment was the order, all along the line.

People said at the time that this policy was adopted for political effect, but they soon discovered to their sorrow that there was no politics in it.

The nation was redeemed by the republican party in 1895. This fact was recognized and recorded by Professor Wilson, in his history of the American people. The sixteen years of prosperity which have produced a new generation, filled with hopeful optimism.

The dead past is forgotten, while the busy present and ambitious future, absorbs attention. The remnant of the old generation is equally interested, but more conservative. It is a little old saying that "a burned child dreads the fire." The little cloud no larger than a man's hand is already on the horizon, and the history of 1892 may be repeated in the experiences of 1912.

Is it worth while to take the chance where there is everything to lose and nothing to gain?

HALF A HALO.

"He was the treasurer of a philanthropic institution which had decided to expand its usefulness, and needed money to do so. He had received a promise of one-fifth of the needed large amount from a widely advertised multi-millionaire, subject to the raising of four-fifths from people who were neither rich nor widely known; and to whom a small amount had all the significance of the widow's mite. By infinite toil and worry the apparently impossible had been accomplished. The millionaire's check, with the string to it, had been received, and his great name graced the new edifice. The weary treasurer sunk into the sleep of exhaustion, and had a dream.

"He was standing, most impersonally, beside the Pearly Gates. The crowd was waiting outside, when the rich man made his appearance, stepping contentedly to one side with the easy confidence of conscious merit. But the Guardian of the Gates motioned him into line; and when his turn came did not immediately pass him through the portals. St. Peter asked for explanations, and finally, to the astonishment of the millionaire, asked for his halo.

"I understood that the halo would be provided," said the Universal Benefactor. "There must be some misunderstanding," said the saint dispassionately and without haste, "Candidates for admission bring their halos with them. However, I will look up your record if you will wait a little." On his return from his researches the Gate Keeper said: "We had no difficulty in finding all about you. There is not a better kept docket in our record. Everything, in fact, is clearly marked with your name and particularly those benefactions where your gifts have been conditioned on the raising of given amounts by other people. The circumstances, in fact, are so striking that we have concluded to make an exception in your case.

"We have decided to send you back. If you can earn half a halo, we will give you the other half."

The Wall Street Journal, devoted principally to questions of finance, devotes a little time to the development of this vision. While it may be overdrawn it applies with some force to a class of men who pose a philanthropist and capture the glory without the sacrifice.

The city of Tampa, Florida, was recently offered $50,000 by Andrew Carnegie, the great library promoter. The usual string was attached and the city authorities declined to accept the offer. As a result an election was called and the question submitted to the people.

Many cities have refused to accept Mr. Carnegie's gifts, and many that accepted, have long since discovered that they made a mistake. The shrewd old gentleman is finding it difficult to give away his income of $25,000,000 a year and St. Peter may be obliged to send him back to dispose of the principal.

The nation always sustains a loss in the death of any man who has been prominently identified with helping to shape its destinies, and so the death of Vice President Sherman, familiarly known as "Sunny Jim," comes as a distinctive loss at the present time. Mr. Sherman represented a high type of American citizenship. He combined with energy and ambition a broad intelligence and a kindly personality which won for him a place in the hearts of all who knew him. His statesmanship was of the workaday kind, which meant more than oratory. He was a safe counsellor and a good adviser. The record of his stewardship will pass to history unsullied. A good man has passed on and the people reverence his memory.

The death of Vice President Sherman on the eve of election creates a vacancy on the republican national ticket at a time when it is impossible to provide a substitute. The tickets already printed will be used, and the vacancy will be filled later by the republican national committee. The people vote for presidential electors, and not for the president, and vice president direct. The action of the national committee will be satisfactory to the party to whom this committee is responsible; and the nation will not long be without a vice president.

New York justice is not always tardy, as Lieutenant Becker discovered to his sorrow. Corruption sometimes becomes intolerable and the punishment of Becker may have a wholesome effect.

Ex-Senator "Billy" Mason addressed a noon-day meeting of industrial workers in Chicago yesterday. A Janesville man who was present said that the men were enthusiastic and it was very evident that President Taft would have a liberal vote in the Windy City, in spite of the straw ballots, so studiously exploited for political effect.

PRESS AND POLITICS

Roosevelt on La Follette. Senator La Follette is using a powerful argument against Roosevelt in his speeches in Wisconsin. Declaring the colonel is greedy for power, he backs it up with this proof.

When Roosevelt was in Madison in April to address the legislature, he rode from the executive mansion to the capitol with Speaker Ingram, Lieut-Gov. Morris and Gov. McGovern. Roosevelt said to them: "One thing I want to say to you boys is, I am worried about La Follette. Of course, I am disappointed in Taft, yet I don't want La Follette to start another party."

York Roosevelt said to Richard Lloyd Jones: "The great danger to the republican party is having a split when the convention meets. That man La Follette is a good man, but he is a very dangerous man. You've got to look out and see that he doesn't lead the progressives off into a new party."

The Weather Man.

The Weather Man (I know him well), Who has charge of the station, Is quite a decent sort of chap Outside of occupation.

When not concocting devilish schemes, To pester us with weather, He is a charming man to meet— Delightful altogether.

He is a man of brilliant wit, He jokes and makes us smile, Goes to his office, pulls a plug, And lets it rain a while.

He says to keep the thin ones on, And then straightaway doth go, Unto his shop and turns a switch And lets a blizzard blow.

He is a smiling optimist, His friends ne'er hear him sob, But he is sure a pessimist When he is on his job.

Outside his office he's a prince— A malcontent, inside, It seems to be another case Of Jekyll and Hyde.

Miss Euphemia Perkins has wrote a letter to President Taft and asked him to change the kind of stickum used on the postage stamps. She prefers vanilla or pineapple flavor, as lickin' stamps has been her entire occupation since she has been tryin' to get her latest poem published in one of the various magazines.

A Bad Amendment—Kill It!

Under the caption "Kill This Amendment," the Janesville Gazette prints in a box from the legislative joint resolution which it ratified at polls next week would add Section 3a to Article XI of the State Constitution, enabling the state and cities to go into the business of purchasing, improving and selling real estate. Residents of every city in Wisconsin should bestir themselves to insure the defeat of this vicious proposition. Residents of the rural districts also have an interest in beating it, for no doubt if the state embarked in the business of buying and selling real estate there would be scandal eventually, as well as a new provocation to enormous waste.—Evening Wisconsin.

Didn't However.

Down at Janesville the republican county committee canceled the date of Gov. McGovern. The same thing was done at Kenosha. The enthusiasm that usually marks the progress of a republican candidate for governor is conspicuous by its absence this year. But then we recall that he is not a republican and that accounts for it.—Marquette Eagle Star.

Modesty Forbids.

La Follette says he will vote for neither Roosevelt, Wilson nor Taft. There was only one candidate for the presidency whom he really admired this year and his modesty forbids his naming him.—Racine Journal-News.

Aberdeen (S. D.) News:—The democrats and republicans appear to be agreed on the proposition that fewer personalities in a presidential campaign would be desirable. Now if the colonel and Medill McCormick and George W. Perkins and Eli Johnson can be persuaded to adopt the same point of view, the remainder of the campaign should be as pleasant and courteous as a quilling bee.

Begin Well.

Finish every day and be done with it. You have done what you could. Some blunders and absurdities, no doubt, crept in; forget them as soon as you can. Tomorrow is a new day; begin it well and serenely, and with too high a spirit to be cumbered with your old nonsense. This day is all that is good and fair. It is too dear, with its hopes and invitations, to waste a moment on the yesterdays.—Emerson.

KILL THIS AMENDMENT.
The one pernicious amendment which should be buried beyond resurrection this year will be known as Joint Resolution No. 48.
To amend Article XI of the Constitution by adding thereto a new Section to be known as Section 3a, relating to the acquisition of lands by the state or any of its cities for certain public purposes.
Whereas, At the biennial session of the legislature for the year 1909, an amendment to the Constitution was proposed and agreed to by a majority of the two Houses, which proposed amendment is as follows:
"Resolved by the Senate, the Assembly concurring, That Article XI of the Constitution be amended by adding a new section thereto, to be known as Section 3a to read:
Section 3a. The state or any of its cities may acquire by gift, purchase or condemnation lands for establishing, laying out, widening, extending, improving and maintaining memorial grounds, streets, squares, parks, ways, boulevards, parks, playgrounds, sites for public buildings, and reservations in and about and along and leading to any or all of the same; and after the establishment, layout, and completion of such improvements, may convey any such real estate thus acquired and not necessary for such improvements, with reservations concerning the future use and occupation of such real estate, so as to protect such public works and improvements, and their environs, and to preserve the view, appearance, light, air and usefulness of such public works"; now therefore, be it Resolved by the Senate, the Assembly concurring, That the foregoing proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Wisconsin be, and the same is hereby agreed to by this Legislature.

Slow Suicide.
"The entirely self-centered man is always a man slowly killing himself. Bachelors do not usually live as long as married men; yet no observer of the world would maintain that bachelors really take less care of themselves. No, they are always taking care of themselves, and it is the care that shortens their lives."—"In Cotton Wool," by W. B. Maxwell.

Our Own Business.
Whilst I do what is fit for me and abstain from what is unfit, my neighbor and I shall often agree in our means and work together for a time to one end. But whenever I find my dominion over myself is not sufficient for me and undertake the direction of him also, I overstep the truth and come into false relations to him.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Secretary Lane and President Allen P. Lovejoy extended an invitation to any of the men present who were not members of the Commercial club to join. Mr. Lovejoy outlined briefly what the club had accomplished during the past year at the request of one of the gentlemen present. A large amount of the work has been concerned with freight rates and improving transportation facilities. It was decided to hold a retailers' banquet once every month during the winter.

There were about forty merchants at the meeting last night. They enjoyed an elaborate seven course dinner in the Grand Hotel dining room. Those present were as follows: George Caldwell, Jos. M. Connors, Amos Rehberg, F. J. Bailey, E. L. Howard, G. W. Grant, W. S. Pond, E. C. Bailey, W. P. Sayles, A. J. Huebel, H. M. Decker, Fred Baker, Frank J. Hingschold, P. Klumb, H. L. ENTERS ON FIFTIETH
YEAR OF HIS REIGN

King George of Greece Second Oldest Sovereign in Europe—Prince of Denmark by Birth.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Athens, Oct. 31.—King George of Greece, who again looms large in the public eye by reason of the flame of war that appears to be rapidly spreading over southeastern Europe, today entered upon the fiftieth year of his reign. Next to the venerable Emperor of Australia he is the oldest of the sovereigns of Europe. Born a prince of Denmark, he was proclaimed King of the Hellenes by the national assembly of Greece on March 30, 1863. He was then seventeen years old. On October 30 of the same year he arrived in Athens, and on the following day he took the oath and mounted the throne.

When the future King arrived in Athens, forty-nine years ago, he was welcomed by a little nation of a million people. He has more than two million subjects now, and Greece has progressed very creditably under his rulership. Though Greece has been overtaken by severe political storms during the past half century the throne of King George has never once been seriously threatened. No one doubts that the King has a genuine love for his adopted country and, at the present moment, shares to the utmost degree the dream of every Greek of making the Aegean Sea a Grecian lake, as it was in the palmy days of ancient Athens, and of seeing her flag float from the minarets of Constantinople on that day, which may not be far distant, when the Ottoman shall be expelled from Europe.

Claudia Carlstadt Wheeler.

"I can't live on $300 a month. I simply exist," said Mrs. Albert Gallatin Wheeler, Jr., known on the stage as Claudia Carlstadt, who is playing one of the picturesque figures in "The Whirl of Society." Then Mrs. Wheeler explained that she would not leave the stage, even though her banker husband has made settlement of $38,000 in two suits pending in the New York courts. One suit in which Mrs. Wheeler says she has accepted a settlement of $10,000 is an action for damages for alleged breaking into her apartments and stripping the room of the furniture. The other settlement of $28,000 represented the replevin suit to regain the furniture.

IMPORTANT RULING MADE BY RAILROAD COMMISSION

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Green Bay, Oct. 31.—The railroad commission of Wisconsin has ruled that a gas or water company cannot refuse to serve a tenant of a building if the company has been unable to collect money owed for water or gas by a person who has vacated the particular building. The commission contends that the water is for the individual, not the premises, and it would be unfair to deprive the individual of water just because he refused to pay the claim of another.

Ceremonies attending selection of site for Chinese Building at Panama-Pacific Exposition. Commissioner General Chen, Chinese flag in hand, at extreme right.

The flag of the Chinese republic for the first time received official recognition by the United States government at San Francisco a few days ago. It was on the occasion of the selection by the Chinese commissioners of a site for the Chinese building at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, to be held in the Golden Gate city in 1915.

The Chinese commissioner general, Dr. Chin-tao Chen, had just received the deed to the site when the guns of the Presidio forts fired a salute of twenty-one guns, by order of Col. Gardner, commanding. In the accompanying picture Dr. Chen is seen at the extreme right, planting the Chinese flag on the site while the crowd cheers.

NATION MOURNS THE PASSING AWAY OF VICE PRESIDENT SHERMAN

A Constant Worker.
Any review of Sherman's life would not be complete without a reference to his work in the house. Briefly, there is recorded no time when he moved galleries to applause by a debate from the floor, or changed any votes, by eloquence. But the statistics bear marks of his work in committee and caucus, and the results of his labors on the Rules Committee, the Interstate Commerce Committee, and other branches of the machinery of the house where the real legislation is done, while speeches prevail upon the floor.

It is not to be said he was no campaigner. In New York state politics he was a leading figure. He was known in other states. His appearances in campaigns, state and national were not infrequent. He was at one time chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee. He always was active in the New York state republican conventions and a figure at all national gatherings of the party.

Sherman went to preside over the senate just about at a time when that popularity is known as senatorial dignity was beginning to feel its first break. In the chair, Sherman was dignified, fair in his rulings, his colleagues said, quiet, firm, sure and seldom reversed on an appeal. But dignity so far as the traditional senatorial frock coat and silk hat were concerned generally was absent.

Informal in Manner.
He regarded his time presiding over the senate as a day's business, to be attended to as if he were sitting in his bank at Utica or at the directors' table of one of the many enterprises in which he had found a fortune and laid the foundations of another for his sons. He usually appeared in a business suit, on a hot day he carried a handkerchief, on a very hot day a palm leaf fan displaced the gavel and perhaps a glass of lemonade topped off the book of rules. Other senators, reluctant, perhaps, to transgress staid custom, fell in with his ideas, and nowadays on a blistering Washington summer day the senate chamber looks quite like a business body.

The illness which proved fatal was little known in Washington until the last few months. Mr. Sherman was not present during the closing days of the last session, and the senate without a president pro tem by the death of Frye, and unable to agree upon a successor, got along by temporary agreements placing some senator in the chair for two weeks at a time. When he disappeared, seeking rest and health in vain, Sherman was genuinely missed about the capital, in the departments, at the White House, where he was a frequent caller and always exchanged a new joke with President Taft, and on the streets where he often walked.

Was Always Cheerful.
In a hurry he used a motor, but it was an occurrence of an ordinary day with congress in session to meet Sherman walking down Pennsylvania avenue, often alone, rosy cheeked and cheerful returning the salutations of scores who knew him by sight, thought of him as "Sunny Jim" and greeted him "Good morning, Mr. President!"—and the passerby who recognized him was greeted as heartily as the senator who might be next.

Vice-President Sherman was born in Utica on the October 24th, 1835. He was married in 1881 to Carrie Babcock at East Orange, N. J. They have three sons, Sherrill, Richard U. and Thomas M., all living and in business in Utica. The vice-president was an Elk, a trustee of Hamilton college, a member of the Dutch Reformed church, a member of many clubs, and a business man of wide interests.

Easy Check to Forge.
Judge Lumley Smith remarked at the Old Bailey that checks for £8 odd were most frequently altered by forgers engaged in what was now an extensive business. Only a "y" was needed to change the eight into eighty. In the case before him a check for £8 14s had been made into one for £80 14s.

He Knew.

Calder of Brooklyn, had been added to the list of women sponsors of battleships. President Taft, several members of the cabinet, government officials and persons prominent in business and society were present at the ceremonies.

MAKES REPARATION BY MARRYING GIRL

Essie Carter.

Declaring that he wanted to make reparation for his father's cruelty, in whipping the girl, Voet O. Dozier, son of W. S. Dozier, of Dawson, Ga., recently married Essie Carter. George Dozier has been infatuated with the Carter girl for some time. When the older Dozier's efforts to separate them failed, he, with several friends, dragged the Carter girl from her home in Dawson, stripped her naked and whipped her unmercifully. The girl came near dying from the beating and Dozier's act was bitterly condemned.

WORKS YEAR FOR SUFFRAGE IN WIS.

Miss Harriet Grim.

If the woman suffrage amendment wins in Wisconsin on November 5, which now seems likely, much of the credit will be due Harriet Grim, the hard-working Illinois suffragist. She has been carrying on a campaign in the state for more than a year speaking and organizing suffrage clubs. She has unusual charm and brilliancy as a speaker—qualities that have made her popular with the voters, especially in rural districts.

Stop That Cough In A Minute

Would you give morphine or chloroform to your baby or take it yourself? Of course not. Yet most patent cough cures contain one or both. They stop a cough in a minute, which is dangerous. A cough should be cured internally by healing the lungs, loosening the phlegm, throwing it out, which is done by coughing. Badger Cough Balsam does not contain morphine or chloroform. It is made by percolation from bloodroot, lobelia, pine bark, wild cherry, etc. It cures a cough in a few days without filling the lungs with poisonous phlegm. The irritation is relieved, the lungs healed without danger of pneumonia. It's safe for children or old people. Get a bottle today for 25 cents. Badger Cough Balsam is made by Mr. Pfeiffer, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist. Badger Drug Co., Milwaukee and River Sts.

The Land Seeker's Guide

This Booklet gives information regarding lands open to those who wish to take up homesteads or to buy lands which are for sale very cheaply in a new country. The booklet which was prepared by one of the railroads, whose line is accessible to these lands, has been furnished the GAZETTE TRAVEL BUREAU for distribution and we believe contains something of interest to a great many people.

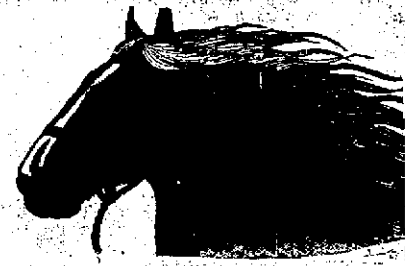

There is more truth than fiction to the statement that a good farm is the best investment a man can have and this book will give the prospective homesteader or purchaser information of farm lands in a country where they can be secured very cheaply and where indications are that they will steadily increase in value until the owner has a comfortable competence for a few years time spent on a claim or for a small investment.

Detailed information is given regarding the land. Such important features as nature of soil, climate, water supply are discussed fully and in fact all matters necessary to be considered by a person thinking of making purchase or of taking them up as a homestead proposition.

Wholesale Condemnation.
"One of the first things that was told me when I landed in the state of Massachusetts, in my vacation from the territory of Hawaii, was the story of a little girl in the Sabbath school. The class was asked by the teacher what heathen was. Several girls gave answers, and finally this little one put up her hand, shaking it most vigorously, and the teacher asked her, and this was the definition she gave: 'Heathen is anyone born outside the state of Massachusetts.'"—Exchange.

CHATS WITH THINKING WOMEN

The Results of a Trip to Europe

THEY had just returned from Europe; and like all returning tourists, they had a lot of what their friends privately called "junk," but which they enthusiastically referred to as a valuable collection of rare curios.

"Aren't these the quaintest things?" said Anne, exhibiting some brass hooks picked up in Holland.

"She would have brought a whole hardware shop of them, if I hadn't stopped her," laughed her husband.

"But just imagine how stunning they'll look on the hall to hang hats on, or—in the bathroom for towels."

"I don't believe the flat owner will let you put up hooks," objected a friend.

"Goodness! I never thought of that," replied Anne. She put the hooks away thoughtfully. Then she dived into another box.

"Did you ever see anything so horribly charming as these?" she rapturously exclaimed, producing several specimens of leering gargoyles.

"They are so ugly they are fascinating."

"What are you going to do with them?" asked a friend.

"Well, of course, they aren't intended so much for houses. That is, I don't think so. Are they?" she asked her husband.

"Oh, I don't know. They'll look all-fired queer no matter where you put them."

"Tom really hasn't much taste for quaint things," explained Anne.

"But I thought they would look delightful sort of peeping over the eaves of the house, like they do at the tops of churches; or maybe,—sort of sitting up alongside the water-spout."

"But there aren't any eaves to a flat," objected the practical friend.

"Nor water-spouts either," chimed in another.

"I never thought of that," replied Anne still more thoughtfully. "But I just couldn't resist getting them."

"If you only had a chicken-house," said a cynical friend, "you might set them up there. I think they would be right on the job of keeping thieves away."

Anne ignored such irrelevancy, and very carefully brought out a huge box which she opened, and tenderly drew forth therefrom, one by one, some door hinges, knockers, latches, locks and bolts, nail heads and a bunch of enormous keys.

"Aren't they just dear?" she said, looking at them with kindly eyes.

"But what in the world will you do with a lot of scrap iron like that?" objected the practical friend.

"Fix up the doors and make them look old-timey. Just imagine how distinguished a door will look with a latch like that," she said, picking up a piece of bent and rusty iron. "Most of these are Spanish. Some are German. But aren't they delicious?"

"But if you go taking the hardware off the doors of your apartment," chorused her friends, "you'll get a call-down from the janitor."

"I suppose I would," admitted Anne. "I guess the only thing for us to do is to build."

So now, she and her husband are hunting a location that will be a proper setting for a house sufficiently mediaeval in design to bear up under French gargoyles, Spanish locks, German latches, Florentine nail heads and Dutch hooks. They feel there must be a deep, dark ravine, and embattled crags, and some melancholy trees such as artists put in Italian landscapes, and a church with chimneys. And snuggled out of sight, so as not to interfere with this artistic harmony, they would like a well-oiled stone road, a good trolley and a town with a good show or two.

And while they are hunting this location, an architect is having brain storms trying to design a house that will be harmoniously French, Spanish, German, Florentine and Dutch, all at one and the same time.

you. Possibly that will cause him to think of the step he is taking. Then, too, he may be taking medicine for a cold, or something of that sort.

The KITCHEN CABINET

WE MAY encourage others by our faith and cheer, but we have no right to dishearten them by doubt and gloom.

A CHICKEN FOR TWO.

A small chicken, costing sixty or seventy cents, is not an extravagance for the small householder who likes to buy economically, for a chicken may be used for several meals; of course, the number depending upon how much is eaten.

A few pieces, like the wings, a second joint or a leg, if parboiled and then fried in butter, with the gravy and mashed or baked potatoes, make a most satisfactory meal. Remove the chicken when it is tender and brown, to a small platter, arranging the pieces as nicely as possible; add a tablespoonful of flour to the pan in which the chicken was fried, and when it is well browned add a cup of milk and seasonings. When smooth and thick, strain into the gravy boat. If the amount of meat seems too meager, have a satisfying salad and a hearty dessert, and the meal will prove sufficient for almost any appetite.

The giblets, if cooked slowly in a cup of water, then chopped and added to the broth with a little thickening and cream, will make a sauce to serve on buttered toast.

The back and neck may be used in a stew with dumplings, making a quantity sufficient even for a chance visitor.

The breast may be sliced and served cold, or make, with the addition of celery and a little good salad dressing, a most delicious salad for two.

Then, after all has been eaten, the bones and giblets will make a small tureen of broth, which may be further eked out by the addition of cream or milk and a beaten egg.

One may, with careful planning, have fried chicken two meals, stewed chicken one meal, minced chicken on toast, a salad or sliced cold breast of chicken and a soup, which will have the flavor of chicken, if other foods are added to make it nourishing.

If one would make a two or three pound fowl serve for three meals one need not feel that they were too much of a luxury to enjoy often.

If one is fortunate enough to have fresh mushrooms in one's own garden or grounds, the combination of chicken and mushrooms is especially delicious, each bringing out the flavor of the other.

WHITE BREAD AND MILK VS. WHOLE WHEAT BREAD.

The notion that white bread is necessarily bad is not correct, as ought to be apparent from the almost universal use of toast for invalids. It is fresh, soft, white bread, with fat, eaten hurriedly, imperfectly masticated, that is particularly objectionable, especially when eaten with meat or acid fruits, the former encouraging intestinal fermentation and the latter preventing the digestion of starch, which can digest only in an alkaline medium. The entire wheat grain contains all the elements of nutrition in nearly perfect proportion. In the milling of white flour, some of the essential elements are largely removed, the mineral elements and gluten being largely contained in the inner coatings of the bran and the germ. In many cases the bran is especially beneficial, and flour made from wheat by grinding the entire grain is a perfect ration in itself, when not kept long; but the elements that are deficient in snow-white flour are contained in milk, and in many cases stale white bread with milk or cream would be preferable to entire wheat bread, being lighter, more completely digested, and less irritating. Nine-tenths of the "whole wheat" or "graham" bread sold in the stores is made from a mixture of white flour and bran, not always of the best quality, or from a flour made from a part of the cereal including the outer coating. The only way to be sure of having entire wheat bread is to buy the wheat and grind it in a hand mill as needed.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

TOO MUCH BOTHER.

THE other evening I was calling on a friend of mine who boards, and found her sitting in her room reading by an electric light of no great strength, and placed several feet above her head.

I asked her if reading with a light like that did not try her eyes, and she said, "Yes, it does a little. My landlady told me she had a kerosene reading lamp I might use, but I should have to fill it and take care of it myself. It's too much bother."

It is really startling to me to notice what things we foolish mortals call "too much bother."

Nothing apparently is too important, nothing is too vital, nothing can have too tremendous consequences for us to say serenely in regard to it, "It's too much bother."

I know a woman who is a great sufferer from indigestion. She has consulted a half-dozen doctors, she has taken enough medicine to stock a drug store, and still she is steadily drained of efficiency and vitality by this miserable trouble. The last time I saw her she said, "This new doctor told me that if I would take a long walk before breakfast every morning it would help me."

"And didn't it?" I asked.

"Well I tried it a few times," she said, and I think it was doing me some good, but I have kind of dropped it lately. It's such a bother."

The mother of a very strong-willed baby is now facing her first problem in discipline. The youngster has reached the age when he wants to throw his playthings on the floor to see someone pick them up. His mother made a few feeble attempts to teach him that he must not do this, and that if he did the toys would stay on the floor, but the youngster promptly raised a rumpus and his mother soon gave up the struggle and devoted herself to picking up the toys whenever they were thrown overboard. "It's so much easier to do that," she explained when an older woman protested. "I can't fight it out with him every time. It's too much bother."

Another young woman, who had been married just long enough to get into the I've-got-him-so-I-don't-matter attitude, was reproached by one of her unmarried friends for not dressing up in the afternoon before her husband came home. "You have some pretty dresses. Why don't you wear them?" said the critic.

And, of course, you know what the lady answered.

Is it too much bother to have good eye-sight?

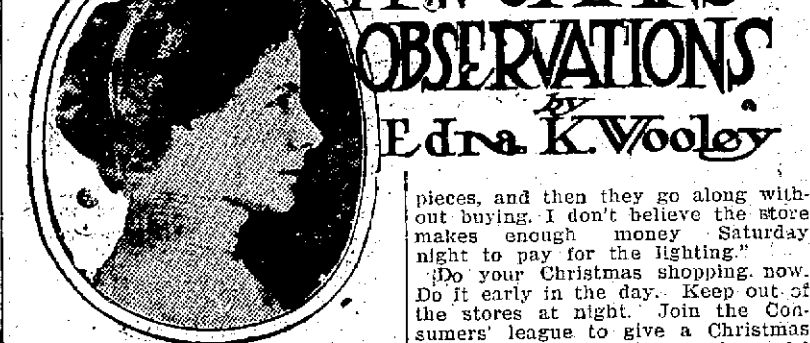

Is it too much bother to be well?

Is it too much bother to have obedient children?

Is it too much bother to have a husband who likes to look at you?

The world is full of good things for those who do not find it "too much bother" to take them.

Be one of these.

A WOMAN'S OBSERVATIONS

pieces, and then they go along with-out buying. I don't believe the store makes enough money Saturday night to pay for the lighting."

Do your Christmas shopping now. Do it early in the day. Keep out of the stores at night. Join the Consumers' league to give a Christmas eve to every man, woman, boy, girl and child in your town.

Women are supposed to be sympathetic, tender-hearted, and wishful to better the conditions of the down-trodden.

Here's a chance to prove it.

A Halloween necessity.

don't suppose everybody is as foolish as I am," she continued. "Of course, judging by the present that generally fail to my lot, maybe we're all a bit crazy when we buy or make Christmas presents. I've got more useless trash packed away—things that no practical person would use in a thousand years. Yet I hate to throw them out, and it seems bad taste to give them away to somebody else. Besides, I know a girl who did that once. She redistributed her Christmas presents the following year, but her memory wasn't good enough to get away with it. Some of them went back to members of the same family that sent them to her, and she hasn't got through explaining yet!"

PROVE IT.

The movement to close all stores on Christmas eve is gaining strength. The Consumers' league is back of it, and every woman in the land ought to be back of the Consumers' league.

In fact, if women would insist upon the humane step of closing every store on Saturday night and on Christmas eve, the storekeepers would at once recognize that it is the thing to do. But so long as certain classes of women delight to drag their children and husbands downtown Saturday nights for the excitement of a tour through the stores; and so long as they are unwilling to allow a happy Christmas eve to clerks worn out by the holiday rush; just because they like to roam through the crowded aisles and purchase a cheap bit here and there, so long will store proprietors keep their places open at night.

Most of those Saturday night shoppers don't buy anything, anyway," sighed one tired little clerk who is on duty until 10 o'clock or later every Saturday night. "They bring their children down and slap 'em when they squall, and they finger over everything and pull it to

HALLOWE'EN PARTY IS GIVEN SENIORS

Faculty of High School Entertained Class of 1913 at Gymnasium Last Evening.

Through the hospitality of the high school faculty the members of the senior class were last night entertained at a real Halloween party at the high school which with its decorations of autumn leaves and other appropriate furnishings provided a tempting retreat for the ghosts that stalk abroad on this occasion. The seniors were invited into the room known as the sewing room after they had pursued some of the ghosts into their hiding places, and in this place, transformed into a spooky den met the members of the faculty. An entertainment to which both faculty and students contributed talent, followed. Miss Marie Dobson played a piano solo, and Miss Marguerite Thorne a violin solo. Prof. Roethe sang several solos which were heartily encored and the program was closed with a piano solo by Miss Jessie Pruner.

Halloween stunts were next in order. Miss Motat distributed envelopes to the boys. These contained directions to find other envelopes which in turn lead to those containing the fortunes of the finder. The girls were sent in search of candles, rings and coins, which also disclosed their fortunes. Partners were then chosen for the banquet, the refreshments being very suitable to the occasion as well as tempting to the palate. A Virginia reel closed the entertainment.

ROCK RIVER SURVEY ALMOST COMPLETED

Government Engineers Expected to Reach Dixon Later Part of This Week—Appropriation Probable.

Engineer Reeves and his corps of assistants will complete the survey to determine whether the Rock river can be made navigable from Janesville to Sterling within the next three weeks. The surveying party is now working between Grand Detour and Dixon, and expects to move to Dixon the latter part of this week. The survey between Grand Detour and Dixon will take about three weeks and it is planned to work towards Grand Detour from Dixon. When this is completed the surveyors will return to Rock Island and work out the details of the data gathered.

It is thought that it will be unnecessary to make a survey from Dixon to Sterling, because the government has plenty of data on the river between these two points. As soon as the data is compiled and estimates of the cost of the improvements made, they will be forwarded to the war department and a copy will be furnished to the Rock River Improvement Association. It is thought highly probable that an appropriation will be made by the next congress for at least some of the work.

ELKS TO HOLD MEETING NEXT TUESDAY EVENING

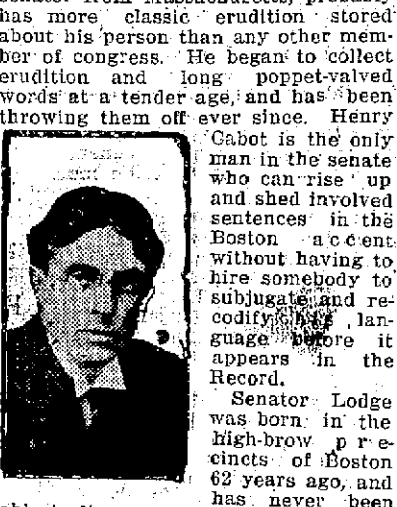

Members of Janesville Lodge No. 254 Will Hold Meeting and Initiation Election Night.

Members of Janesville Lodge No. 254, B. P. O. E. will hold a regular meeting next Tuesday evening, election night, in their rooms at half past seven o'clock. There will be an initiation of new members and a luncheon will be served. Election returns, received by special wire, will be read at the meeting.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES.

WHY WHO'S WHO.

(By Howard L. Rann.)

HENRY CABOT LODGE, senior senator from Massachusetts, probably has more classic erudition stored about his person than any other member of congress. He began to collect erudition and long poppet-valued words at a tender age, and has been throwing them off ever since. Henry Cabot is the only man in the senate who can rise up and shed involved sentences in the Boston accent without having to hire somebody to subjugate and recondify his language before it appears in the Record.

Senator Lodge was born in the high-brow precincts of Boston 62 years ago, and has always been able to live it down with any success. It gives him the most pain whenever he comes up for reelection, when he is pictured as a composite photograph of Lord Chesterfield and Dr. Mary G. Walker. On this account, it is getting so that the only way Henry Cabot can corral the labor vote is to hold up the cotton and shoe schedules with some of his best erudition.

Senator Lodge carries a deadly weapon in the form of a high-powered vocabulary, which he aims at the Democratic party whenever a great national crisis begins to arise and threaten the textile industry. Nobody can stand in front of this vocabulary and talk back without putting on shin guards and a chest protector.

Many and many a time Senator Lodge has pushed back the advancing hordes of foreign pauper-labor, with his vocabulary alone. He carries it with him on all of his trips, with the result that his ordinary conversation sounds like a thesis on the nebular hypothesis.

Senator Lodge is a distinguished looking man, with a fine growth of natural foliage on his face, which he parts carefully in the middle and allows to fall away on either side in a neat Horseshoe Falls effect. In politics he is suspected of being a stand-patter, which is the only crime of which he has ever been accused. He furnishes the scholarship for the senate, but has hard work making it go around.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

N. C. HANKS.

Death comes with a crawl or he comes with a pounce. And whether he's slow or swift, it isn't the fact that you're dead that counts.

But only, How did you die?

Edmund Vance Cook, author of the lines printed above, tells the brave story of N. C. Hanks.

Hanks lost both hands and both eyes in an accident. That was when he was a miner. Now he is a popular lecturer on Shakespeare and modern writers.

This is the story:

At twenty-one he and his partners leased a claim near Nephi, Utah, and prospected for ore. The claim proved a valuable one. Hanks was as happy as a man could be who has good red blood, a fine financial prospect and a letter from his sweetheart in his pocket.

One day at noon, just after reading his sweetheart's letter, which some one had brought up the hard mountain trail to the lonely cabin, Hanks picked up a box of dynamite caps which had lain in the sun. The slight jar did the rest.

By a miracle he escaped instant death.

He was thrown ten feet away and when he arose both eyes were gone and where his hands had been were bleeding stumps. His partner, looking upon him, screamed and cried like a child. Recovering himself, he got Hanks to the cabin, where he bound his arms tightly above the elbow to stop the bleeding.

It was six miles to a telephone.

All that afternoon Hanks lay alone, having as sole companion a little dog.

When help came they got him to a hospital at Provo, where they saved the remnant of him. His sweetheart came to see him, and he released her from their engagement. What woman would want both a cripple and a blind man for a husband?

And then?

Had it been you? N. C. Hanks, cripple and blind, went to work to make a lecturer out of a miner—and succeeded. He makes return dates, which tells the story of his popularity.

And you?

You have two eyes and two hands, and yet you whine because you have no chance? Doesn't the dauntless spirit of N. C. Hanks make you ashamed?

And if you have been unfortunate doesn't the spectacle of Hanks going about, keeping sweet and serene, hearten you some?

"And the lands!" she said. "They were his; now they are yours—

"Unjustly, perhaps you think."

"No, not!" she cried. "I didn't mean

—I didn't imply that. Of course not!

Only, putting out her hands, "I try to understand, and you have never taken me into your confidence, mon pere! You have been indulgent; declined me nothing, but I don't want to feel the way I have felt the last week,

as if—" quickly she stopped. "No doubt there are reasons—although I have puzzled, and if I knew! Can't you, abruptly, "treat me as one worth the care of your confidence?"

"You!" he said with quiet irony.

"Who—listen!"

The girl flushed. "I had to, because—"

"And who misrepresented facts, as in the case of—Saladin!"

"But—"

"How long," standing over her,

"were you on the island?"

"I—don't know!"

"You don't?" His voice implied disbelief.

"Part of the time I was unconscious—"

"In the watch-tower with him!"

She made a gesture. "Would you rather—"

"What did he say?"

The girl's eyes that had been so steadfast, on a sudden wavered. "Nothing—much."

"And you? Nothing, too? Then how was the deception devised—the pact entered into—"

Her figure stiffened. "There was no pact."

"Treason, then? The law holds it treason to—"

"You are cruel; unjust!" she cried.

"To me, as you were to him. That old man you had whipped! I wonder."

"If you are so sure of that, as if they would like to curse us!"

He turned away. "I am very busy."

"Mon pere!"

He walked to the door.

"Then you won't—won't spare them?"

He opened wide the door. Still she did not move, until the sight of the commandant, without, the curious glance he cast in their direction, declined her. Drawing herself up, she walked toward the threshold, and bowing, perfunctorily, with head held high, crossed it.

CHAPTER XV.

The Voice from the Group.

"No one from the household is allowed through without an order!"

"You will, however, let me pass."

"Because you have a pretty face?"

The sentinel at the great gate separating the upper part of the Mount from the town, answered roughly. "Not you, my girl, or—"

But she who importuned raised the sides of the ample linen head-dress and revealed fully her countenance.

"My Lady!" Half convinced, half incredulous, the soldier looked;

stared, at features, familiar, yet seeming different, with the rebellious golden hair smoothed down severely above; the figure garbed in a Norman peasant dress, made for a costume dance when the nobles and court ladies had visited the Mount.

"You do not doubt who I am?" Imperiously regarding him.

"No, my Lady; only—"

"Then open the gate!" she commanded.

The man pushed back the ponderous

ture for observation in the framework to which he repaired upon adjusting the fastenings, he could see approaching a procession of noisy fanatics.

The apprehension of the soldier was, however, not shared by the girl, who, glad she had found a means to get away from the chilling atmosphere of her own world, experienced now only a sense of freedom and relief. In her tense mood, the din—the shouting and unwanted sounds—were not calculated to alarm; on the contrary, after the oppressive stillness in the great halls and chambers of the summit, they seemed welcome. Her pulses throbbed and her face still burned with the remembrance of the interview with her father, as she eyed un-seeingly the approaching band, led by banner and banner-bearers.

"Vierge notre esperance—" Caught up as they swept along, she found herself without warning suddenly a part of that human stream. A natural desire to get clear from the multitude led her at first to struggle, but as well contend with the inevitable. Faces stared, half-crazed, encompassed her;

eyes that looked starved, spiritually and physically, gleamed on every side. Held as in a vise, she soon ceased to resist; suddenly deposited on a ledge, like a shell tossed up from the sea, she next became aware she was looking up toward a temporary altar, garish with bright colors.

"Etends sur nous—" Louder rose the voices; more uncontrollable became the demeanor of the people, and quickly, before the unveiling of the sacred relics had completely maddened them, she managed to extricate herself from the kneeling or prostrate throng; breathless, she fled the vicinity.

Down, down! Into the heart of the village; through tortuous footpaths,

where the pandering, not piteous, element held sway; where, instead of shrines and altars, had been erected booths and stands before which vendors of nondescript vials or poor trumpery vended their loquacity on the pilgrims.

"All hot! All hot!"

"A la barque! A l'ecaille!"

"La vie! Two drinks for a hard!"

"Volla le plaisir des dames!"

The Mount, in olden times a glorious and sacred place for royal pilgrimages, where kings came to pray and seek absolution, seemed now more mart than holy spot. But those whom the petty traders sought to entice—sullen-looking peasants, or poorly clad fishermen and their families—for the most part listened indifferently, or with stupid derision.

"Bah!" scoffed one of them, a woman dressed in worn-out costume of inherited holiday finery. "Where think you we can get sous for gewgaws?"

"Or full stomachs with empty pockets?" said another. "The foul

The nomadic merchants replied and a rough altercation seemed impending, when, pushing through the crowd,

the girl hurried on.

Down, down, she continued; to the base of the rock where the sand's shingling surface had attracted and yet held many of the people. Thither they still continued to come—in hands; processions; little streams that, trickling in, mingled with and augmented the rabble. An encampment for the hour—until the "petite" tide should break it up, and drive it piecemeal to the shore or up the sides of the Mount—it spread out and almost around the foundations of the great rock. Only the shadows it avoided—the chilling outlines of pinnacles and towers; the cold impress of the saint, holding close to the sunlit strand and basking in its warmth.

NOTICE OF GENERAL ELECTION

To the Electors of Rock County:

Office of County Clerk,
Janesville, Wisconsin, October 26, 1912.

Notice is hereby given that a general election is to be held in the several towns, wards, villages and election precincts in the county of Rock, on the 5th day of November, 1912, at which the officers named below are to be chosen. The names of the candidates for each office to be voted for, whose nominations have been certified to or filed in this office, are given under the title of the office and under the appropriate party of other designation, each in its proper column, together with the question submitted to a vote in the sample ballot below.

INFORMATION TO VOTERS

The following instructions are given for the information and guidance of voters: (a) A voter upon entering the polling place and giving his name and residence, will receive a ballot from the ballot clerk which must have endorsed thereon the names or initials of both ballot clerks, and no other ballot can be used. Upon receiving his ballot, the voter must retire alone to a booth or compartment and prepare the same for voting. A ballot clerk may inform the voter as to the proper manner of marking a ballot, but he must not advise or indicate in any manner whom to vote for.

(b) If a voter wishes to vote for all the candidates nominated by any party he shall make a cross or other mark under the party designation printed at the top of the ballot in the circle made for that purpose. A ballot so marked and having no other mark will be counted for all the candidates of that party in the column underneath, unless the names of some of the candidates of the party have been erased or a name shall be written in or a cross mark be placed in the square at the right of the name or names of candidates in another column. If the voter does not wish to vote for all the candidates nominated by one party, he shall mark his ballot by making a cross or mark in the square at the right of the name of the candidate for whom he intends to vote or by inserting or writing in the name of the candidate.

(c) A voter may vote for an entire group of candidates for presidential electors by making a cross (X) or mark in the square at the right of the names of candidates for president and vice president whose names appear in the column above the names of the candidates for presidential electors in the group, he may erase the name of such candidate or candidates and the cross (X) or mark at the right of the names of the candidates for president and vice president shall count as a vote for each of the other candidates for presidential electors in such group whose names are not erased. If a voter wishes to vote for another person in place of a candidate whose name he has erased he may insert or write in the name of each such person in one of the spaces in the blank column at the right of the ticket. If a voter does not wish to vote for any candidates for president or vice president or for any presidential electors, whose names appear upon the ballot, he may insert or write in the names of the candidates for president and vice president, and presidential electors to a number equal to the number of electors to be selected, in the appropriate spaces in the blank column at the right of the ballot.

(d) A voter may vote upon a question submitted to a vote of the people by making a cross (X) or mark in the square at the right of the answer which he intends to give.

(e) The ballot should not be marked in any other manner. If the ballot be spoiled, it must be returned to the ballot clerk, who must issue another in its stead, but not more than three in all shall be issued to any one voter. Five minutes time is allowed in booth to mark ballot. Unofficial ballots or memorandum to assist voter in marking his ballot can be taken into the booth, and may be used to copy from. The ballot must not be shown so that any person can see how it has been marked by the voter.

(f) After it is marked it should be folded so that the inside cannot be seen, but so that the printed endorsements and signatures of the ballot clerks on the outside may be seen. Then the voter should pass out of the booth or compartment, give his name to the inspector in charge of the ballot box, hand him his ballot to be placed in the box, and pass out of the voting place.

(g) A voter, who declares to the presiding officer that he is unable to read, or that by reason of physical disability he is unable to mark his ballot, can have assistance of one or two election officers in marking same, to be chosen by the voter, and if he declares that he is totally blind, he may be assisted by any person chosen by him from among the legal voters of the county. Their presiding officer may administer an oath in his discretion as to such person's disability.

(h) The following is a facsimile of the official ballot:

True Brotherly Feeling.

We must repeat the often-repeated saying, that it is unworthy a religious man to view an irreligious one either with alarm or aversion, or with any other feeling than regret and hope and brotherly commiseration.

At The Theatre

"IS STEALING JUSTIFIED."

Can a person steal and still not be guilty of doing wrong? This is the question raised by the play "Kindling" in which the brilliant young actress, Sarah Padden, is starring as Maggie Shultz. Maggie is the woman who steals, and yet, who, in the eyes of everyone who sees the play, is not condemned. Clergymen in all parts of the country have been greatly interested in the story and an unusual number have witnessed the play. One of these Rev. Jacob E. Meeker, pastor of the Compton Hill Congregational Church in St. Louis is outspoken in its praise. "Kindling" is the most powerful American play yet written," said he in a recent interview. "It does not preach, it portrays. After the play I asked of some of their own opinions of the terrible twist Maggie apparently had given to our hard and fast law of punishment for guilt. Everybody stood up for her. I never felt before the sting of the rebuke that shot from the hypocritical Scribes Pharisees, who meted out so much punishment for so much violation of law and in the next breath turned to the cringing woman with the words 'Neither do I condemn thee, go and sin no more.' Hamlet said, 'The play's the thing wherein I'll catch the conscience of the king.' Charles Kenyon with his perfect play and perfectly balanced group of players, catches the conscience of us all, and who shall say that were are not guilty?"

Miss Padden in "Kindling" will appear at the Myers Theatre Saturday November 2 matinee and evening.

"THE GIRL WHO DARED"

There is a delicious sense of freedom from the cares of the world, and the extravagant praise given it by the dramatic critics. It is sure to color another good sized fortune for its producer, Mr. Delamater.

"FRECKLES"

"Freckles," Gene Stratton-Porter's most popular and best selling novel, apparently possesses that magic quality that brings fortune to every one connected with it; the sale of the book has reached half million copies and it is still one of the six best sellers, which means that it has earned a fortune for Mrs. Porter and Doubleday, Page and Co., and Grosset and Dunlap the publishers.

Manager A. G. Delamater was so well pleased with Niel Twomey's dramatization of the story that he has commissioned Mr. Twomey to dramatize two other popular novels of which he controls the dramatic rights. This will undoubtedly bring fame and fortune to Mr. Twomey, judging the likedom from the cares of the world, and the extravagant praise given it by the dramatic critics. It is sure to color another good sized fortune for its producer, Mr. Delamater.

"THE FORTUNE HUNTER."

One of the many interesting situations in "The Fortune Hunter," which comes to the Myers theatre Sunday November 3 matinee and evening with a new dressing, new faces, new costumes, new scenery, new songs, new and startling electrical effects, all the old members furnished up in a brilliant style, and an unexpected cast, a chorus of beauty and grace, this most successful of musical extravaganzas is really worth witnessing.

It is, conceded to be better than the season's best, written and composed by Thos. T. Railey and Alfred Robyn, composers of "The Yankee Tourist," "The Yankee Consul," "The Money and The Girl," and the world famous song "Answer," is a guarantee of its musical and dramatic worth.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Editor Gazette:

I feel sure I express the feelings of a thinking and reading woman, when I say we thank the council for the have stand they have taken; that after three or four weeks of deliberation—during which nearly a week has not passed without some lady being insulted on our streets, or some person, narrowly escaped death by a reckless auto driver—that they are about to bar all women from saloons. What a comfort it must be to the husbands. Now if they'll just deliberate again and give a just and sound reading to an ordinance, that all women shall retire at 9:30, how dare we say they are not brave?

CLINGING VINE.

IS INDIGNANT.

I have read, from time to time, articles in your paper written by different people with different grievances. I have thought, What's the use? What good will it do? But I am going to state through your columns an experience I had one morning this week. In trying to cross the street on the corner of Main and Milwaukee streets, two street cars were standing, one on Main street, the other on Milwaukee street, headed towards Milwaukee.

I saw two or three teams approaching on the right side of the street and had plenty of time to cross, but did not see an automobile that was coming at the rate of twenty miles an hour, on the wrong side of the street, that suddenly shot between the street car and a heavy wagon that was also on the wrong side of the street. Had not someone yelled, and I jumped, I should probably not be writing this. As I was directly in front of this car and not two feet from it, I looked for a policeman but none was to be found, and I saw one anywhere about for over an hour after this occurred. Now please tell me, what are we to do? What are the signs? "Speed limit eight miles an hour," that decorate our street corners for? Ornaments? Is there not a law to the effect that if a street car is standing still to let off its passengers an auto is to wait until passengers are off the car? Why put up signs, or why make more laws when the ones we already have are violated?

Had I been killed I've no doubt I'd had a funeral, lots of write-up, and the rockers drivers would be censured and possibly a committee would be appointed to "look into the matter." It makes interesting reading for the public, but somehow does not appeal to me, to care to be the subject of said funeral. Now what is the matter? It looks to me as though our council and police force lack backbone. I'm a woman and I know this:

If a woman undertakes to fill a position that she finds is too large or too complicated for her to handle, she'll step down and out. If our council can not handle our city affairs, why not step down and out and let someone else try?

For a New Umbrella.

Before using a new umbrella inject a small quantity of vaseline into the hinge portions of the frame. Vaseline will not spread like oil and spoil the covering, and is a sure preventive against rust. Wet umbrellas should be stood on their handles to dry; this allows the water to run out of them, instead of into the part where the silk and ribs meet, thus causing the metal to rust and the silk to rot.

APATHY OF CITIZENS INDICTED FOR CIVIC MORAL CONDITIONS

Speakers at Congregational Brotherhood Meeting Defend City Officers Against Unjust Attack.

Public apathy and unconcern were indicted at the meeting of the Congregational Brotherhood last night responsible for existing moral conditions in Janesville. City officers and the police were not exonerated of all blame, but the speakers emphasized the fact that upon the attitude, passive and active, of each citizen, and of the majority of citizens depended the extent to which moral and civic reform could be carried.

"The moral situation in any city is just what the city wants it to be," said Justice Charles Lang, who opened the discussion on civic conditions in Janesville. "In Janesville they are just as good as they are in the average city of this size and the government as good as any city's. The police in Janesville are in some respects better than those of other cities, and our Chief of Police is if anything better than the heads of most police departments."

"The fault is the people's if conditions are not what they should be. Conditions in this city are not peculiar. Take for instance the law prohibiting the sale of liquor to minors. There is no town in the country where it is strictly obeyed. Many people know that minors are sold liquor but never think of their duty to enter a complaint. There are parents here who tell their children what saloons to patronize even if they are under age. I know personally of such an instance. The boy looks to be of age but he is not twenty years old. His mother heard that he was drinking in saloons and was about to enter a complaint when the father called the boy to him and told him what saloon he might frequent. If he cared to drink, if that saloon-keeper had been caught he would have been blamed. The same attitude on the part of parents causes trouble in pool and billiard halls."

"The state of affairs in Janesville is not what I would like to see. Most men criticize conditions and then sit back with idle hands and wait for someone else to do the reforming. The new commission of fifteen is an excellent idea, and if the people will back it up we will need no new commissioners or police force."

Mr. Lang went on to rectify an instance where a jury of Janesville citizens freed a saloon keeper charged with violating the Sunday closing law because the fourteen men found inside offered the films excuse that they were working on a tiny ship.

He thought that the defense in the last two prosecutions for selling liquor to minors was equally weak and that if public sentiment had not changed the violators had an equal chance to escape punishment. An industrial school was advocated by Mr. Lang as an admirable way to get the children off the streets and he also expressed his support of the playground movement.

Attorney O. A. Oestreich made a strong defense of the city council.

"It has been stated that the council was to blame in the Bergstrom murder case, but I say that when these men, meaning those attending the mass meeting held at the city hall recently, stood with that horrible crime in their minds and said that these three men are responsible for the murder they were terribly unfair. The council is not to blame. The law demands of these three men, commissioners to come before the council every evening and patrol the streets and visit each saloon and billiard hall to see that the law is enforced, the police department must do part of this work as far as they can. I believe in the punishment of every man found guilty. You can go too far when you say the councilmen are to blame. They are in no way to blame."

Mr. Oestreich stated that he had one serious objection to the manner in which the campaign against vice was being carried on in Janesville, and that was the fact that the city was being advertised all over the country as a "black spot" on the map, a plague spot. Although not very much in favor of the commission form of government when it was voted in, he now thought it was the only form of city government.

S. Baines, president of the Brotherhood, presided at the meeting last night, introducing the speakers in their turn. He also introduced the question of supporting the playground movement and on the motion of the Rev. Dr. David Beaton a committee was appointed to take the matter up with the program committees of the other church brotherhoods, so as to have it brought up for discussion.

Mr. A. E. Matheson spoke a few words of tribute to the late Major Cobb, and also for Milo Curtis, who year.

Advices Contractors Who Have Unfinished Work to Provide Watchmen

—To Have Special Police.

Tomorrow night, Oct. 31st, is Halloween and I sincerely hope that all will refrain from destruction of property. I have conferred with all contractors who have unfinished work, and they are to have watchmen (who will have police power) on their respective jobs. I will have special police throughout the city and with our regular force we hope to protect the citizens from damage to their property, but I wish it distinctly understood if anyone is caught destroying property they will be arrested, put in jail and given the full penalty of the law.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Oct. 31, 1872.—Fire This Morning. An alarm from the fire engine house at twenty minutes past four this morning brought out the fire department, a bright light in the Third ward directing the course of the steamers. The house of Anton Battery, on Racine street, was burning, but before the engines succeeded in getting water on the structure it was nearly consumed. The bursting of the hose was a serious annoyance to the firemen, compelling them to stop the supply of water several times. Battery's house was valued at eight hundred dollars, and is now believed to be fully insured. A portion of the household goods was destroyed and a quantity of grape wine in the cellar, met a like fate. The cause of the fire is unknown. Mr. Battery discovered it, shortly after he got up this morning, issuing from the roof and floor simultaneously. He had just kindled a fire in the stove, but thinks that was not the cause of the conflagration.

The Prospect Bright. Hon. I. C. Sloan and A. A. Jackson of this city, were in Milwaukee a few days ago and during their stay took occasion to call on Supt. Merrill, of C. M. & St. P. R. R. and confer with him on the subject of a new depot in Janesville. Mr. Merrill assured them of his willingness to erect a good depot here, either for his own company or in conjunction with C. & N. W. company. This is encouraging.

Brief Items. It is said that a plan of the proposed new depot was in the city last week. If the companies have progressed thus far in the direction of gratifying the desires of the people of this city, it is probable that the building will be erected between now and spring.

The night mails departing from this city are now kept open until nine o'clock, one hour later than heretofore. Letters deposited in the outside box, up to that hour, will be forwarded.

The November term of the circuit court opens next Wednesday.

UNCLE WALT

The Poet Philosopher

BY WALT MASON

The man of perfect manners may on tattered uppers go his way, and he will gain a host of friends as on his toilsome way he wends. But gents whose manners are correct don't need such hardship to expect; they mostly tread on joyous feet along the paved of Easy street. For men of courtesy and grace will find a welcome any place. They are not turned from any door; the merchant wants them in the store; wherever there are high priced snaps, there's a demand for gracious chaps.

POLITENESS who have a stock of winning ways that they have carried all their days. These fellows get the best in life; when one goes forth to seek a wife the luscious damsels fairly scrap to get their talons on that chap. But never yet did pretty girl distress herself to hook a churl. The courteous man finds life a feast, for him the good old world is greased, and when he dies the whole blamed town turns out to see him sodded down. These facts are known the whole world over; you'd think that men whose heads are sore would try to profit by the same, and quit their foolish, grouchy way. Politeness makes your life serene; the way to be poorish, ugly, mean? The more you deal in sass and slack, the more the world will hit you back.

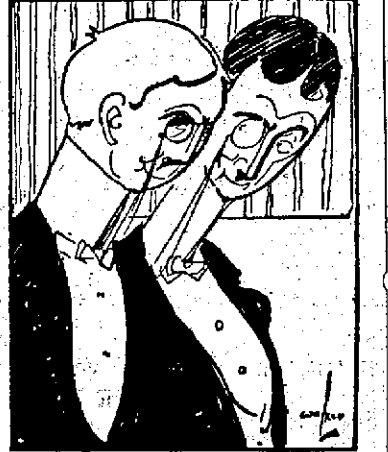

Football Condemned.
Football has always had its enemies. In "The Anatomy of Abuses," published in 1883, the game is soundly abused. Its author describes football as "a bloodie and murdering practice." "For doth not everyone live in wait for his adversary," he argues, "seeking to overthrow him or to pick him on his nose, though it be upon hard stones? In ditch or dale, in valley or hill, or what place soever it be, he garath not, so he have him down!"

OCTOBER 31

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

A quiet, busy year is indicated with progress in an uneventful way. Unusual undertakings are unfavorable. Those born today will have positive natures of the self-assertive kind and will succeed if under wise influences early in life. The faults to be controlled are haughtiness and a tendency to run to extremes.

Mr. Butler H. Bates, 72 E. 12th St., Fond du Lac relates: "Kidney trouble bothered me for a long time. I had also a severe pain across my back and other irregularities when I heard of Foley Kidney Pills. I got them and began taking them with the result that the pain left me, and the action of my kidneys became normal and after taking four bottles, I am better than I have been for years." BRANCH OFFICE FOR GAZETTE AT BAKER & SON.

For the convenience of its patrons and the public generally, The Gazette has opened a branch office with the J. P. Baker & Son, Drug Store, corner West Milwaukee and Franklin streets.

Copy for classified advertisements, orders for papers, subscriptions and matters of this nature, as well as items of news may be left at the Baker Drug store, and will receive the same prompt attention as if they were sent direct to the office.

Either telephone line, number 10, will reach the Baker Drug Store if it is desired to call them in connection with The Gazette's business.

Papers on sale each evening at the store.

FIRE INSURANCE

It is getting cold; more chances for a fire. What if you should burn out this winter. Are your buildings and furniture insured?

Let us talk with you about this.

HUMPHREY & BAUER
Bell, 1013; Rock Co., Red 411. 421 Hayes Block.

Remembered by Their Deeds.
Who thinks of Milton as blind or of Beethoven as deaf or of Darwin as an invalid? What they accomplished was so great that their personal infirmities are for the moment forgotten in the sense of their achievements.—The Christian Register.

Seldom.
People who talk merely for the purpose of attracting attention to themselves seldom get the kind of attention that is worth anything.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Persons Answering Fraudulent Advertisements Asked to Notify Gazette.
The Gazette is desirous of keeping out of its columns fraudulent advertising and asks the assistance of its patrons to that end.

There are any number of concerns in the country who make a living through a nicely worded advertisement, offering golden opportunities, and fertile unscrupulous people and fertile ground for work among the masses.

Many orders are received in the Gazette mail for advertising which are returned as objectionable and where there is a question as to the qualifications the advertisement is omitted. All newspapers have this experience.

But even with the utmost care there will be an occasional bad advertisement which will pass the scrutiny of the business department of the paper, and find its way into the columns.

The Gazette will deem it a favor if you will report to the office any trouble which may have been experienced through the answering of such an advertisement.
